DETAILED ACTION

1. .

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-5 and 12-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hattori et al. (US 2003/0132302)(hereinafter referred to as 'Hattori').

3. Hattori teaches an IC card serving as a flat transponder comprising a core layer having an IC chip (3b) and a antenna wire, wherein a second sheet comprises a thermoplastic resin (0063), the first and second sheets materials can be paper laminated to the body of the card (0092), the core layer having an antenna and an IC chip serving as a module wherein the connection between the antenna and the chip are embedded as shown in figure 9 (see figs. 1-10).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 6-11 and 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hattori in view of Okada (US 2001/0040186).

The teachings of Hattori have been discussed above.

Although, Hattori teaches the IC card, he fails to particularly teach hat the notch.

However, Okada teaches an IC card having a plurality of notches (4) in V-shaped (see figs. 1A-2; paragraphs 0031+).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Okada to the teachings of Hattori in order to improve flexibility of the card when the card is forced to bend.

Although, Hattori as modified by Okada fairly suggest that the notches having particular properties such as dimensions, locations, etc., however, it would have been an obvious design variation well within the ordinary skill in the art failing to provide any unexpected results for choosing particular properties of the notches.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
7. Nishikawa (JP 2001155821), Kuroda et al. (US 6879258), and Haghiri et al. (US 5888624) teaches a non-contact IC card.
